

Getting set up as an artist

Seven steps from signing up to selling tickets. Takes about ten minutes.

1 Sign up as an artist

Open MadGigz and tap I'm an Artist — not Fan. You'll need a username, your email, your date of birth and a password.

2 Confirm your email

We send you a link. Tap it if you can.

If it says the link has expired, don't worry — your email provider almost certainly opened it first to scan it, which already confirmed you. Just go to Sign in.

3 Claim your profile

Add your artist name, at least one social link (Instagram, TikTok or Twitter/X), and a short bio if you like.

Then upload something that shows the profile is yours: a screenshot of Spotify for Artists, song credits with your name on them, or a screenshot of you logged in to that social account. Only we see it — it's never shown on your page.

4 Wait for approval

Your profile shows Under review while we check it. We'll email you when you're approved — that's when Add Show, posting and the ticket scanner unlock.

5 Connect your payouts

Go to Profile → settings icon → Payouts → Connect payouts. This hands you over to Stripe, who ask for your name, address, date of birth, an ID number and your bank details (IBAN). You enter these with Stripe directly — we never see them.

Come back and the badge should read Ready. If it says Pending, Stripe still wants something — tap Finish setup to finish it off.

6 Add your first show

Tap Add Show and fill in the title, venue, date, time, price, capacity, lineup and a description. Add a poster if you have one.

You can either sell tickets on MadGigz, or just list the show and link out to your own ticketing page. A free show (price 0) can go up before your payouts are ready.

7 On the night

Open Profile → Scan Tickets and scan each fan's QR code at the door. It tells you straight away whether the ticket is valid, already used, or cancelled.

WHAT YOU EARN

The price you set is exactly what fans pay. MadGigz takes 5% of each ticket (minimum 25¢), plus IVA on that fee — so a €10 ticket pays you €9.39. You'll see the full breakdown as you set the price.

Ticket money builds up in your Stripe balance and is paid out to your bank after your show has happened — that way a cancelled gig can always be refunded to fans.
